My Holland Code was ASI, which stands for Artistic, Social, and Investigative. Some of the jobs that they offered I had thought about doing. However, I never knew that I like to solve or investigate problems. I scored the highest in artistic(12), which I was surprised to see. I'm not necessarily a really good drawer, but I have certain ideas that are considered artistic. I think it would be cool to be an interior designer or someone who works a lot with colors. These jobs would mainly focus on my artistic side. I scored the next highest in Social(5). I think that this position was exact. I like to be outgoing and social. I think that working with others and socializing describes a lot about me. I want to keep an open mind when searching for jobs; however I have always wanted to be on a newscast particularly being a meteorologist. I think this best fits my social side. I scored the third highest in Investigative(4). This was a little shocking, but the more I thought about it, the better I understood why. I really like to solve problems, and work with others. I think it would be cool to be a lawyer or a certain investigator. Based on all of this information, I found out that you can do so many things based on what your personality is. I'm provided with a lot of opportunities and I hope that one day I can make the right decision.
